

Today

בְּיוֹם חֲתֻנָּתוֹ וּבְיוֹם שְׂמֵחַת לְבוֹ

B'yom chatunato u'v'yom simchat libo (HAYOM!)

... on his wedding day,

the day of his heart's rejoicing. (TODAY!) (Song of Songs 3:11)

We are called to come out (from our blindness and complacency) to gaze upon King Solomon (the truth of our wholeness) who wears the crown that his mother (Shechina, the Divine imminence) gives him on this day that celebrates the marriage of all duality. This is the day of our heart's rejoicing! The day when we see through the illusions of separation; and the truth of Unity is made known.... Oh, that's TODAY.
